HOTEL CLARENDON

On Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the Casino in Ormond was given the minstrel under the direction of George E. Keegan of the Clarendon hotel. The cast was a combination of employees from the hotel and those of the big building was filled to capacity and on the second night John D. Rockefeller, who is at his winter home in that place, was in attendance. At the close of the entertainment he made it a point to see Mr. Keegan and to congratulate him upon the excellence of the production.

This minstrel performance will be given at the Auditorium in Daytona Beach on March 15. The first part will consist of the minstrel, with a chorus of a hundred voices and the dancing will be executed by the young women of the cast and it will close with a grand patriotic finale, with display of electric lights.

The second part will be a cabaret scene and one of the biggest hits of the evening is the Clarendon riding scene by sixteen girls.

The director, George E. Keegan, does some clever dancing and singing and the closing number, which is a "Rube" skit, consists of 12 men, half of them dressed as women, in an old fashioned barn dance, which keeps the audience in hags of laughter.

Among the recent guests of the hotel are the following:
